Wildebeest migration: where to watch it

Serengeti Soroi Lodge

By Lisa Grainger – 15th July 2010

Tanzania

Newly opened on June 1, Serengeti Soroi Lodge sits on a remote hill overlooking the plains of Musabi and the western corridor of the famed Serengeti plains, and offers front-row seats for the migration in May and June, and again in November and December.

Owned and operated by the family-run Mbali Mbali Camps and Lodges, which has an excellent reputation, the lodge has been designed to maximise the glorious 'stretching forever' 360-degree views. It has 25 strategically positioned stilted thatched chalets boasting hardwood floors, Turkish baths and outdoor showers tucked away among the thorn and acacia trees and linked to each other by timber walkways to minimise impact on the landscape.

There is a communal living area and dining-room with an open-plan kitchen, an infinity rock pool, Nomadic African Spa and multiple viewing decks for watching the action.

- A six-night Soroi Migration Package with five nights' full board (excluding alcohol) at Serengeti Soroi and one night at River Trees Lodge in Arusha, flights, transfers and Flying Doctor's membership, costs from £3,850 pp with African Explorations (01367 850566; africanexplorations.com).
